CONGRESSIONAL HAPPENINGS IN WASHINGTON

By CLARENCE J. BROWN
Member of Congress,
Seventh Ohio District

The so-called National Guard Training Bill, empowering the President to call into Federal service the National Guard units of the various states, as well as members of the Reserve Corps, passed the House late last week. Only thirty-three votes were cast against the final passage of the measure. The real contest had come earlier over an amendment to restrict the use and activities of the Guardsmen and others involved to the soil of the United States and its possessions. The administration forces, however, were able to defeat the amendment and the new law will carry authority for the President to send the National Guard into service in any country within the Western Hemisphere. An Amendment was adopted providing for the honorable discharge of all Guardsmen under eighteen years of age before induction into Federal service. A provision is also carried in the law permitting resignation from the service within twenty days after passage of the bill, by those having dependents. The Senate is expected to act on the House amendments to the measure promptly and the signature of the President is expected within the next few days.

According to testimony given by War Department officials before Congressional committees, it is now planned that National Guard units, numbering approximately fifty-five thousand officers and men, and coming from twenty-seven states, will be called into service early in September. The remaining units will be called up as rapidly as possible thereafter with the belief that all National Guardsmen will be in Federal service by January 1st. The total number of men in the National Guard at the present time is said to be two hundred and forty-two thousand. Nearly a hundred thousand Reservists are also expected to be called into active service within the next few months.

While the fight goes on in the Senate over the Wadsworth-Burke Conscription Act, and debate is long and torrid as to whether or not volunteer enlistment plan shall first be given a trial before conscription is resorted to, interesting sidelights are developing. For instance, just last week nationally known Negro leaders appeared before one of the Congressional committees to protest discrimination against their race in connection with army enlistments. The Negro spokesmen pointed out that less than five thousand of their race have been admitted to military service and insisted that Negroes be permitted to enlist in a ratio equal to their percentage of the total population of the country. The statement was later made that at least one hundred thousand Negro volunteers could be obtained within sixty to ninety days if opportunity of enlistment is given.

Senate Administration leaders believe that the Conscription Act will be brought to a vote in the Senate late this week or early next week. Legislative observers predict that some sort of a compromise plan will be worked out and incorporated in the bill providing for registration within the near future, but postponing actual conscription until after the volunteer enlistment system is given a full and fair trial. It is reported that Army officials are now recommending such a compromise and postponement of conscription because it will be impossible for the Army to receive, clothe, house and equip a large number of conscripted men for several months to come.

Present plans call for the House to start debate on the new Corporation Income Tax Bill late this week. The measure will contain certain exemptions for defense industries, permitting the rapid writing off of plant and equipment expansion costs in connection with the manufacturing of national defense needs. Another section, however, will add heavy income tax levies which will increase taxes on profits from six to eight percent. Corporations, under present tax laws, are paying approximately one billion five hundred million dollars a year in income taxes. The new excess profits levies are expected to add a five hundred million dollar burden on the affected corporations. The new law will apply to the 1940 corporation incomes.

Registration of three million six hundred thousand aliens within the United States will begin on August 27th under provisions of a new law passed by Congress several weeks ago. While all of such aliens are not considered to be of danger to the United States, the law provides for the registration of all such aliens.

New Dealers Want All Men Conscripted

The House Military Committee on Wednesday voted to conscript all men for military use between the ages of 18 to 45. Ministers and college seniors would be exempt, the latter only to conclude college work for a year.

The Senate bill provides for conscription of men from 21 to 45. The proposal to write England with the U. S. and Canada, is the first step to force this nation to supply men for the English army. The movement is headed by Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.

Answer Found To Riddle About Potatoes

Some weeks ago the Herald carried a story of Dr. C. M. Ritchie finding a potato vine in his garden that had looked like tomatoes in several clusters. When the vine was lifted from the ground there were small potatoes at the root.

According to John Bushnell, potato specialist of the Ohio Agricultural Experiment station the "tomatoes" are called seed balls. He says the cool weather in June favored the setting and development of the balls, something unusual in Ohio but common in the cooler north. Many Ohio gardeners saw potato balls this year for the first time.

Potatoes can be grown from the true seeds that are found in the seed balls, but the plants are not like the parent variety. A curious collection of the new kinds results. Fifty years ago amateur plant breeders were encouraged to plant the seed, and many valuable varieties were thus originated. In modern times, this breeding work has been taken over by professional plant breeders, who, working in Northern States, make careful hand pollinations and keep accurate records of the progeny. The new potato varieties of recent years such as the Warba, Chippewa and Katahdin have come from professional breeders. Not since 1900 has any new variety of merit been developed by the chance occurrence of a seedling in the garden of an amateur.

For gardeners who like to do things out of the ordinary, it is not difficult to grow potatoes from the true seed.

TRANSFER OF FARM WAS TABLED BY CLARK CO. BOARD

The Clark County Board of Education at a meeting Saturday laid on the table a petition from Fred G. Welburn who purchased the Townsley farm on the Townsley road last spring that is in the Selma School District.

The transfer was for two farms comprising 142 acres but the board held that in centralized school districts such as Selma, transfer is discretionary with rural boards rather than mandatory as in other districts.

Mr. Welburn has three children that have been attending Cedarville schools but now will go to Selma schools.

Walter Huffman Gets To Meet Republican Nominee for President

Walter Huffman accompanied by J. M. Auld, drove over to Elwood, Ind., Monday, when Mr. Huffman had the opportunity of meeting his former lieutenant in the World War, Wendell L. Willkie, the Republican nominee for president. He was granted a short interview and the two had a pleasant chat of events during their service during the World War.

There are some thirty reporters and news and press photographers that are assigned at Willkie headquarters, wherever he goes. Both Chicago and New York photographers "shot" Mr. Willkie and Mr. Huffman when they each returned to their homes.

Mr. Huffman stated to the Herald that Mr. Willkie is much heavier now than when he served in the World War. It was no doubt a pleasant greeting for both, but more so for the Republican nominee, when Mr. Huffman who has voted twice for Roosevelt, stated that he would be found supporting his former lieutenant, now the Republican nominee for president.

CHURCHES REDECORATED

Both the Presbyterian and the United Presbyterian Churches in Clifton are being redecorated during the vacation period.

Key Sentences in Willkie Address

Here are some key sentences in Wendell L. Willkie's formal address Saturday at Elwood, Ind., accepting the Republican Presidential nomination:

"I propose that during the next two and a half months, the President and I appear together on public platforms in various parts of the country, to debate the fundamental issues of this campaign."

"Mr. Roosevelt . . . has dabbled in inflammatory statements and manufactured panics . . . The President's attacks on foreign powers have been useless and dangerous. He has courted a war for which the country is hopelessly unprepared—and which it emphatically does not want. He has secretly meddled in the affairs of Europe, and he has even unscrupulously encouraged other countries to hope for more help than we are able to give."

"As President . . . I should . . . threaten foreign governments only when our country was threatened by them and when I was ready to act."

"I can not ask the American people to put their faith in me without recording my conviction that some form of selective service is the only democratic way in which to secure the trained and competent manpower we need for national defense."

"We must admit that the loss of the British fleet would greatly weaken our defense . . . The Atlantic might be dominated by Germany, a power hostile to our way of life . . . This would be a calamity for us."

"We must face a brutal, perhaps, a terrible fact. Our way of life is in competition with Hitler's way of life . . . I promise to outdistance Hitler in any contest he chooses in 1940 or after."

"I charge that the course this Administration is following will lead us, like France, to the end of the road. I say this course will lead us to economic disintegration and dictatorship."

"I am saying to you that we cannot rebuild our American destiny without hardship, without sacrifice, even without suffering. I am proposing that course to you as a candidate for election by you."

"I am opposed to business monopolies. I believe in collective bargaining by representatives of labor's own free choice, without any interference and in the full protection of those obvious rights. I believe in the maintenance of minimum standards for wages and a maximum standard for hours . . . I believe in the Federal regulation of interstate utilities, of securities markets and of banking. I believe in Federal pensions, in adequate old-age benefits and in unemployment allowances."

"I believe that the Federal Government has a responsibility to equalize the lot of the farmer with that of the manufacturer. If this can not be done by parity of prices other means must be found—with the least possible regimentation of the farmer's affairs."

"The New Deal stands for doing what has to be done by spending as much money as possible. I propose to do it by spending as little money as possible."

PRIZE WINNER

You Vote Yourself To
An Army Rifle"

Will George Smith Decline Nomination For Prosecutor

One of the interesting topics being discussed this week in the county seat is "Will George Smith qualify as a candidate for Prosecuting Attorney on the Democratic ticket?" Smith received enough write-in votes for the nomination on his party ticket but has not yet qualified. A tip we get from a prominent Democrat is Smith may not qualify. If he files he must resign as a member of the Greene County Board of Elections. If he does not qualify Prosecutor Shoup will have the open field on the Republican side and his election would be certain, as much as if Smith runs as most Republicans see it.

Our Democratic informant says this does not look like a Democratic year and Smith does not want his record on one victory out of two ventures upset by another defeat at this time. Smith longs for another race with Judge Frank L. Johnson, who was the winner for Common Pleas judge two years ago. Smith gave up the Probate judgeship to accept an appointment as Common Pleas Judge following the death of Judge Gowdy. He was defeated in this race by Judge Johnson.

CLERKS-TRUSTEES PICNIC

Greene Schools Adopt Uniform Cards, Schedules

A uniform schedule in the school calendar for 1940-1941 and uniform grade cards for Greene county schools were adopted at a meeting of county school superintendents in the offices of County Supt. H. B. Pickering, Thursday.

All schools in the county will open Tuesday, September 3 and close May 23. Previously the schools opened and closed on individual schedules. The calendar also calls for a spring vacation for rural students on April 10, 11, marking the first time in the county school system's history that a spring vacation has been allowed.

Another addition to the schedule this year will be a county spelling contest April 4, with the winner accompanying Supt. Pickering to Washington D. C., as the reward.

Committees of superintendents were named to design uniform grade cards for the elementary and high school grades and are as follows: Elementary—Supt. C. W. Lane, Springfield Valley, chairman; Supt. H. D. Furst, Cedarville; Scott T. Bowers, Ross; Harley Hollingsworth, Caesars Creek, and E. C. Eckan, Clifton. High school—C. M. Stebbins, Beavercreek, chairman; C. A. Wright, Bellbrook; W. W. Boyer, Jamestown; S. O. Liming, Yellow Springs, and J. F. Alford, Bowersville.

Miss Florence G. Swain, Xenia, has been employed as secretary to Supt. Pickering and to the county board of education, succeeding Miss Ruth Mitchell of Cedarville, who resigned recently.

TRAVELERS CLUB GO TO CUBA NEXT YEAR

The Travelers Club, composed of F. F. A. boys in this vicinity, arrived home Sunday afternoon after one of the best trips that have been scheduled for this group.

Taking up the route following the last report the boys stopped in New Orleans at the dormitory of the city auditorium. In the same building was a large ice skating rink. Some enjoyed skating while others appreciated the cool atmosphere.

There was a visit to the French Markets and many points of historical interest in the Vieux Carre or Old French settlement. It was difficult to get on the shipping dock owing to war regulations but finally the boys were permitted to pass the guards and go aboard the large ocean freighters and observe the unloading of bananas and coffee. While in the city the boys enjoyed the premier showing of "Boo Town".

While in Baton Rouge the party was conducted through the six million dollar capital built under Huey Long's administration. There was interest in how Long dictated to the legislature. A large electric wall panel in the governor's office showed how each senator voted on special bills by lights flashing next to the name. According to the guide Huey boasted he could buy and sell senators like bags of potatoes.

The boys lost a ball game to Hammond, La., F. F. A. by a score of 4 to 8.

A baseball game at Vaiden, Miss., was not completed due to the heat. While in that city the boys were guests at a picture show in the afternoon and to a southern barbecue in the evening. An Indian prepared the barbecue which consisted of a goat, two sheep and two pigs. Twenty-five chickens were made in a stew. Some three hundred people attended. Later in the evening the boys joined the Vaiden people in a fox hunt.

During the stop in St. Louis a trip was taken through several large industries. Some went to the "open opera" to see "Rosalie". On Saturday the boys witnessed the national baseball game between the Cardinals and the Cincinnati Reds.

There was a visit to Jack Frost's air field where Jack Frost is a student. Jack took the boys through some of the hangars, showed them the planes and barracks. He came home with the boys so he could have a few hours visit with his parents in Clifton.

The club is already looking forward to a trip next year which will be to Key West, Florida, and on to Cuba.

ENQUIRER RAISES ROOSEVELT'S NEW DEAL

The Cincinnati Enquirer editorially will support Wendell Willkie for President this year.

The Enquirer for some time has exposed the New Deal as an un-American movement leading to dictatorship in this country following the plan adopted by Hitler, Mussolini and Stalin.

The following is an editorial from the first page of the Sunday Enquirer that is worth serious consideration by all citizens who believe in the American way of life and conduct of government:

"I am an American."

"I believe in preservation and observance of worth-while and time-tested American traditions. Some of them have existed for so many years, and were so soundly based at the outset that they have attained all the validity of moral law."

"The observance, for example, of Thanksgiving Day by all the people of the United States on a common date was a fine tradition. For more than a century and a half Americans gathered simultaneously and reverently in places of worship, hallowed by their fathers, to give thanks to Almighty God for His loving kindness and beneficence."

"That beautiful and peculiarly American tradition was violently wrested from its place in the calendar by executive order. Little wonder that millions of Americans resented and rebelled against the scuttling of a tradition old as the nation itself. Thanksgiving ceased to be a national day of prayer and gratitude."

"For long decades the Democratic party, in brilliant victory and glorious defeat, upheld the banner of representative, economical government. It became and was for long years the traditional guardian of constitutional American freedom. It proclaimed in 1932 a platform of principles than which no nobler declaration of party purpose and policy was ever written. Little wonder that in a period of economic chaos and dire distress the people of the nation with unprecedented unanimity turned over the ark of the covenant to its traditional friend and keeper."

"It did not require seven years of dictatorial government by the administration elected on that platform to demonstrate that it had no purpose to observe its solemn pledges to the people. The Democratic party, with its established principles, promptly was torpedoed and sunk in a tidal wave of New Deal experimentation, with the result that unrest, unemployment, mounting debt, and fear have completely involved the entire nation."

"The most vital American historical tradition, which might well have been embodied in the constitution, forbids the election of any aspirant to a third term as President. George Washington foresaw the inherent danger and warned the people of the young republic to guard against its sinister possibilities. His successors, until now, recognized and approved the wisdom and prudence of the first President."

"Flushed with arrogance and power such as no other President ever possessed or exhibited, the tradition smasher, with withering scorn, even hatred, for sound established American principles, blandly and blithely calls upon the voters of the nation to perpetuate him in office. Backed by an army of more than a million Federal office holders owing their jobs to him, and with the resources of the Federal Government entrusted to him in large degree by a supine and obedient Congress, the danger is both apparent and real."

"I believe in sound American traditions; not in New Deal fantasies and nightmares."

WHEN CONSCRIPTION SHOULD START

Conscription for the army of men from 18 to 21 years of age up to 65 years is so far beyond all reasonable thinking, especially when the nation has not been attacked or even threatened by any foreign power. Nominee Wendell Willkie made plain his position in his acceptance speech as being for it when we have to have it but he did not disapprove of trying the old established rule of volunteer enlistment first.

The New Deal does not want volunteer enlistment but regimentation just as Hitler and Mussolini have adopted. There is plenty of evidence that if the New Dealers will let down the bars more than a million young men will sign up for one year under the proposed $30 a month allowance. There is one more stumbling block and that is most young men have not forgotten the treatment of our boys in the World War abroad. They prefer war service on this side of the Atlantic. The New Dealers will not agree to such a plan for service of our soldiers has been promised England by Roosevelt. Roosevelt at this time is burning up with a determined desire to get our uniformed men in service behind King George.

The New Deal treatment of our World War veterans by Roosevelt soon after taking his seat as president has not been forgotten. One of his first acts was to reduce compensation for the disabled. He even went so far and ordered a reduction in the pensions being paid Civil War widows even in their old age. All these things have helped check volunteer enlistment.

If we were at war or have been threatened by some foreign nation and more men were needed for military service the whole country would unite in union and demand conscription in some form. Sec. Stimson admitted before a Senate Committee Monday that we had not been threatened and he did not think we would be soon. So what's the hurry about forcing men into military camps over night?

The Chicago News, which is under the control of Col. Frank Knox, R., who was recently appointed Secretary of the Navy in the New Deal cabinet, came out Monday with a front page editorial endorsing Wendell L. Willkie for the presidency. Knox resigned as head of his company after taking his official position in Washington. Knox was appointed by Roosevelt, along with Stimson, E., who is Secretary of War, because both were in favor of immediate intervention in the European war.

The Cincinnati Enquirer, D., in a first page editorial Sunday, announced support of Willkie for president. Monday the Baltimore Sun one of the leading Democratic papers in the nation, announced that it would support Willkie in preference to Roosevelt. A number of other eastern Democratic papers have switched to Willkie in the coming campaign.

Sen. Clark, Dem., Idaho, charged Monday that the speech of Ambassador William C. Bullitt to France, in Philadelphia Saturday was "little short of treason". Sen. Wheeler, Dem., called Bullitt a "war monger". Bullitt said "only the Atlantic ocean is between America and war". Bullitt is a known Communist first named to Russia by Roosevelt. The Russian theory of government was more than Bullitt could stand and he asked to come back to America. Later he was sent by Roosevelt to France.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer will for the first time in more than one hundred years refuse to support the nominee on the Democratic ticket, Franklin Roosevelt, for president. The largest paper in Ohio has been a consistent supporter of most of the Roosevelt policies the past seven years but the manner in which the nomination was brought about was more than this Democratic paper could endorse. Moreover the Plain Dealer admits that most of the Roosevelt policies have failed—other than placing a burden on the debt on the nation for future generations to pay. It is convinced that Roosevelt no longer has at heart the principles of the Democratic party but favors dictatorship in this country that he (Roosevelt) will be the ruler over this nation.

Speaking of presidential nominations it must be admitted that the New Dealers who stole the Democratic mule for the party emblem followed tradition in convention procedure. Stalin in Russia nominated himself. Mussolini nominated himself. Hitler nominated himself and Franklin D. Roosevelt nominated himself with Democratic delegates on the federal payroll.

Every now and then we hear over the radio as to how England laughs and plays following an airplane raid over that country. A friend tells us of a letter received from England by a friend in Springfield which gives a different story. The letter says the people in many sections are frantic and fear to go to sleep day or night. Upon warning, hundreds are herded into bomb proof shelters to remain for hours where dampness and filth causes much sickness. Most everything used by common citizens is rationed while the royalty and upper crust of society has the best and plenty of it. Children from well to do families are sent to the country for safety while millions of tots of the laboring class roam the streets day and night. Thousands of aged men and women have become demented over worry and suicides take place by the hundred each month. The letter gives an entirely different version of conditions than what we get over the air, most of which is never found in any press dispatch.

The whole nation will watch the outcome of the election in Indiana this fall. Among the sporting class at Elwood Saturday, bets were offered at even money, any amount, that Indiana would go for Willkie and elect a Republican senator and governor. Chicago betting commissioners had a poor day for business and we have been informed at one place only three fifty dollar bets were placed with more than five hundred of various amounts up to one thousand dollars not taken. Fully sixty-five per cent of the Elwood crowd was rural. Boos everywhere greeted the names of Roosevelt and Wallace even in groups in the big crowd.

Probably few people ever heard such a roar from human voices in the Elwood gathering as when Willkie offered to meet Roosevelt face to face on the platform over the country to debate the issues of the campaign. Time after time Willkie was forced to stop due to applause and the roar of the crowd far from the "mikes" on the stage made speaking a real task when the mercury was 103 and the sun shining in the speaker's face. The loud speaker system used Saturday was said to be the most extensive ever used in any gathering and it was letter perfect at the farthest point of the forty-acre park or even in the heart of the city.

Democrats as well as Republicans are anxiously waiting to see what position former Governor James M.

The "Dodge City" Of The North

The Northwest Mounted's most exciting man-hunt begins on Saturday at the Majestic Theater when James Oliver Curwood's "River's End," crosses the screen. Starring Dennis Morgan, George Tobias and Elizabeth East, the outdoor thriller tells a dramatic tale of civilization's last outpost and the scarlet-coated mounties who rule it.

paln contributions from state civil service employees.

Although the U. S. Dept. of Labor has boasted for months about big increases in employment and despite the much-touted "purification" of WPA by Congress and President Roosevelt, the official records since July 1 tell a story that thus far is strangely like the record of the 1938 election. In 1938 WPA records began to climb in June and hit a new high on election day—thereafter they began a long and continued fall. This year, the "election expansion" began July 3 with 1,611,218 on the WPA rolls which was increased to 1,700,284 on July 31, and going up steadily.

Mr. Fred Fields and son, Edward, of Seattle, Wash., spent Wednesday of last week visiting for a short time with the former's mother, Mrs. George Hamman and other relatives. They came East on a business trip and stopped for the day.

Dr. and Mrs. Donald F. Kyle and family are spending a short vacation in New York state in the Adirondacks. They will return September 2nd.

Miss Lounett Sterrett spent a few days this week visiting with her brothers, Walter and Dwight Sterrett in Muncie, Ind. She was accompanied by her nephew, Stewart Bobb of Sparta, Ill., who visited a few days and has since returned home.

Mr. Frank Sherwood of St. Louis, Mo., was a guest at the home of Mr. M. W. Collins a few days this week. He is connected with the Bell Telephone Co. in that city.

Mr. Huston Cherry is exhibiting sheep this week at the Illinois State Fair at Springfield.

Miss Barbara Smith has entered a Girl Scout Camp at Tar Hollow, near Laurelsville, O., Ross Co.

Signs are signs everywhere. One read: "If you have not ordered your winter supply of soap, write or phone 1600 N. Pennsylvania Ave., Washington, D. C."

Sen. Danaher, R., of Connecticut, says Sec. Ickes, the Roosevelt Communist in the cabinet and pinch hitter for the Hyde Park Squire, stands to make $187,417.50 on 160 imperforate stamps for which he paid the government only $82.50. At stamp collector prices the special issue would reap a fortune. But Sec. Ickes is not the only person connected with the New Deal that has figured in the stamp business. If we recall Postmaster General Farley presented FDR with an issue that is worth many thousands at stamp collector prices and few of the same issue are in the hands of the public. A Republican administration would uncover some funny things that have been going on, even unveil to the public just how much stock the Roosevelt family had in General Electric when they entered the White House and what they have now. There may be a reason why it has been necessary to have so many government power dams. You must have electric machinery to generate electricity.

All possibility that county chairmen might "shakedown" state employees from their counties for campaign contributions was killed August 10, when the Republican high command, in session at the Columbus Athletic Club, adopted a formal resolution denouncing such assessments. The resolution was proposed by Governor Bricker, who has already declared against "2 per cent clubs" and similar methods of extracting campaign funds from state employees. Since all 88 county chairmen attended the meeting which also included members of the state central and executive committees and state and district candidates, the resolution pleases county chairmen, as well as the state Republican headquarters, on record. During the last Democrat state administration, several state officials, including cabinet members, were indicted for collecting cam-

"WHEN THE DALTONS RODE." Universal's saga of frontier America in the days of the celebrated Dalton gang, comes to the State Theater, following Walt Disney's festival, in Springfield, on Sunday, August 26, with Randolph Scott and Kay Francis heading a distinguished cast. Based on the exciting book of the same name, the film traces the careers of the Dalton boys as ranch owners who are led into spectacular crime by the pressure of a land company.

Monday morning daily papers carried a picture of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell L. Wilkie as they were greeted by Rev. Frank E. Wylie, at the entrance of the United Presbyterian Church in Rushville, Ind., where the Republican nominee and wife attended service on Sabbath. Rev. Wylie is a son-in-law of Dr. and Mrs. B. A. Jamieson of this place. Rushville is the home of Mrs. Wilkie and it is in that county that Mr. Wilkie operates five farms.

"Information Please"

Tell me, Miss Kessler, how can I vote this year and not "lose my vote?"

Good friend, a vote for principal is never lost. Your ballot is a sacred trust, you have no right to trifle with it, to "throw away your vote" casting it for something you do not want, or for which you cannot ask God to bless the honest business and men encouraging its sale.

"But this year," says one, "I'm going to close my eyes to the dry question, and vote for the other things, my party and candidate stand for. We shall take care of the liquor situation later."

How long would it take the pastors of our churches to build them up, and get the people of their communities to following the Lowly Nazarene, if each one acceded, pursued the method of taking care of everything else first? When will we learn to put first things first?

Well, but lady, I vote for the man! And we reply, you think you do. But you also vote for his platform, and his party as such, all the way up and down the ticket. If you think you do not, you are not fooling anybody but yourself. In other words, we note the brewers bought $35,000 worth of advertising in the programs at one of the major party conventions. You say you voted for the man; well, you received this wet money right along with "your man." And this is just a beginning of the slush fund, which will help elect "your man."

But, I'd vote prohibition this year if we could elect the candidate.

That's why the millions of Republicans voted for Alf Landon four years ago; they thought they could elect the candidate. Did they do it? In fact, didn't they "lose their votes," or did

Lesson for August 25

LESSON TEXT—II Samuel 12:13, 14; Psalm 51:1, 2, 3, 10, 13, 14, 17, 19.

GOLDEN TEXT—Confess your sin to the Lord, and pray for another that he may be healed.—James 5:16.

CONFESION AND FORGIVENESS

If the Bible told us only of perfect people, we would recognize it as being not true to life and assuredly of no help to us who know our own sinful nature. The Bible, however, tells us in all truthfulness of the bad as well as the good, the weak as well as the strong, the humble as well as the mighty.

It honestly portrays the sins of its greatest characters, revealing the heart of man as "deceitful above all things, and desperately wicked" (Jer. 17:9). It tells us of a gracious God (when man repents and forsakes his sin) who invites the sinner to come and be delivered from his sin.

The lesson centers around David, the humble shepherd boy who became king; and in the height of his glory, being tempted by the lust of his desires, fell into the lowest of sin, which he then sought to cover by a well-planned murder. He finds no peace until he repents and returns to God. Three words summarize the lesson.

I. Sin (II Sam. 12:13, 14).

That little three lettered word seems to have the hiss of the serpent in its—sin—the cause of all man's woes and the heartache of a loving God.

David had tried to hide his sin, and he said, "My bones waxed old through my roaring all the day long. For day and night thy hand was heavy upon me" (Ps. 32:3, 4). "Be sure your sin will find you out" (Num. 32:23) is just as true today as it was in David's time.

The nature of sin is described in Psalm 51, and if we may anticipate a bit, we note that it is described by three words: "guilt," "rebellion," and "iniquity." Guilt is the same root as our word "unequal," meaning crookedness of heart and life; and "guilt," which means missing the mark, a life going the wrong way.

Note that sin, while it may bring sorrow and trouble to us and those round about us, is "against the Lord" (v. 13 and Ps. 51:4). The sinner must face and answer to God for his sin.

Nathan's straightforward dealing with David brought him to II. Repentance (Ps. 51:1-3, 6-13).

What David expressed to Nathan—"I have sinned against the Lord"—is more fully expressed in the great psalm of penitence which we know as Psalm 51. F. W. Wilbur M. Smith well says that "probably these verses have brought more comfort, and assurance of forgiveness, and hope for a renewed life after some terrible transgression, to a greater number of God's children down through the ages than any other single passage in the pages of the Old Testament."

To acknowledge one's transgression before God is to open the floodgates of His mercy, to receive His grace in forgiveness, cleansing, restoration, new joy, and (note it well) renewed usefulness (v. 13). God does not cast His people off because of their sin, nor cut off their usefulness when they repent.

Observe, however, that God did not permit David's sin to go unpunished. God is forgiving, but even repentance cannot wipe out the results of sin (II Sam. 12:14). God chastised David to declare before the people all of His divine hatred of sin. To sin against God is no light and casual thing. It cuts deep into and only the grace of God is sufficient to bring a man up out of that pit. But there is

III. Forgiveness (Ps. 32:5).

How tender and sweet is that word—forgiveness. It speaks of the removal of guilt, the breaking down of the barrier which sin has created, and the restoration of fellowship. Where all has been wrong and troubled, all has become right and at peace.

These things are true even in the forgiveness of one man toward another who has offended; but infinitely greater when the heart of God meets the repentant sinner. He is so ready to meet such a man that even while he is thinking of confessing, God sees the attitude of his heart and forgives. "At this moment, without sight or sound that mortal ear can detect, or attitude that the eye of man can observe, even before the thing is said, when I make up my mind to confess, 'thou forgettest the iniquity of my sin! Do you wonder that when this man was going to write a psalm about this matter, he had to begin, 'O the blessings of transgression forgiven, and sin covered?' (G. Campbell Morgan).

Lumberlost Cabin

By Chester Brown Lamate

Wanderer's Cabin

We were traveling in Indiana. Our route took us through Geneva, the former home of Gene Stratton Porter, famed novelist. The Porter family residence was known as "Lumberlost Cabin." The lower story is built of red cedar logs and the upper story and roof have redwood shingles. The logs and the shingles are all stained in the same natural color. It is as black off the highway, and nestled amidst beautiful trees and shrubbery.

Here Gene Stratton Porter began to write in the early Nineties. She began with short stories of birds accompanied by photographs. She became an ardent student of the birds of the vicinity. South of the little town was the great Lumberlost Swamp many square miles in area, with its underbrush and trees, its flowers, birds and animals. She was attracted by the lilacs, the goldenrod, the orioles, the jays, the finches, and the cardinals.

Her first book was "The Song of the Cardinal," which appeared in 1903. It has been translated into seven languages. There followed "Freckles," "A Girl of the Lumberlost," "Music of the Wild," "The Harvesters," "Mothers of the Lumberlost," and "Laddie" which appeared in 1913. One feels that the very ground is inspired.

After viewing the cabin, we stopped at a small store. The clerk gave us this story. "One day a man came to Geneva from Cleveland. He had read with delight all of Gene Stratton Porter's books and many of her magazine articles. He was deeply impressed with her description of the Lumberlost country. He determined to see it with his own eyes. So he set out the next morning, but returned to his hotel at noon. 'I am through,' he said. 'Why, we have prettier country around Cleveland. Our Cuyahoga River Valley is finer than your Wabash Valley. Our Western Reserve is much more beautiful than your Lumberlost country. I expected to spend a week here, but I am through in half a day. I am going home, but I must say this: Gene Stratton Porter certainly had a wild imagination!"

Here is the secret of success. She saw where others failed to see. She developed marvelous descriptive powers. As a result, her stories became excellent entertainment. She saw deep into God's handiwork. Her books had a message. She had a purpose in writing, and that was to do good.

Moreover, she made the most of her environment. She saw beauty, heard music, observed Nature in its manifold activity, and made friends of the inhabitants of the wild. She was happy in her writing. Her early life in her deeply religious parental home flowered into a life of great helpfulness. We were glad we stopped to see Lumberlost Cabin.

RAINFALL AID TO CROPS

Nearly an inch of rain fell in this section last Sunday afternoon which will do much to aid the corn crop and the young grass, if the latter can be saved at all.

Crops in this section are on par with the best we have seen in other parts of Ohio and some in Indiana. It is our opinion that Greene county corn prospects exceed most counties on an average.

Advertisers Live in GLASS HOUSES

WHAT they promise in their advertisements, and what they deliver in their merchandise, are right there for all to see.

If they deliver what they promise, they make friends and steady customers. If not they make enemies, lose patronage and finally go out of business.

Those are the told, hard reasons why honesty is the best policy—especially in advertising.

But the real fact is that advertisers as a class are humanly jealous of their good names. The trade-marks of manufacturers and the published recommendations of merchants are only accorded to products which they can offer you with confidence and pride.

You can trust the ads to lead you to sound values.
